Three Basic Game Concepts to Know:

More Details:

O Success Roll (Can I do this?) 🎝 🗢

NOTE: Rolling low numbers is good. (It's called "roll under.")

With any skill level at all, doing very easy things is automatic. Otherwise, roll 3 ordinary dice against your skill or attribute. Ordinary tasks succeed if you roll equal to or less than your skill level. No matter what number you're trying for, a roll of 3 or 4 is always a success and a roll of 17 or 18 is always a failure.

- Modifiers: Harder tasks have penalties (-): subtract these from the level before rolling. (You may WANT to make a task harder.) In contrast, easier tasks have bonuses (+) that are added. (You can get bonuses by changing how you do the task.) You or the GM suggest modifiers, then the GM decides.
- Contests: When competing with someone else, both people roll and the one who succeeds by the largest margin wins.
- Criticals: If you roll very low or high you succeeded or failed spectacularly. This is called a critical success or failure.

🛿 Combat (Did I hit him?) 🕸

NOTE: Rolling low numbers to hit/dodge is good.

- To attack make three rolls: (The first two are success rolls.)
- (1.) Attacker rolls 3 dice against the weapon skill to hit.
- (2.) Defender rolls against Dodge, Block, or Parry to avoid.
- (3.) If the attacker succeeded and the defender failed, the attacker rolls the dice listed under damage for that weapon.

NOTE: Rolling high numbers for damage is good.

Before applying damage, the defender subtracts any Damage Resistance (DR) due to armor, cover, etc. Next, certain types and locations of damage have multipliers (for instance, if you are impaled, damage is x2). Finally, the victim subtracts the total from their current HP (hit points).

The GM may state further effects (e.g., victim is knocked down).

B Reactions (Do they like me?)

NOTE: Having positive bonuses is good.

When you meet an NPC, or ask one for a favor, the GM makes a reaction roll in secret using a table of reactions. (Players do not make reaction rolls.) The higher the roll, the friendlier the reaction.

- Influence Skills: You can ask to try your influence skill instead to get a better reaction: e.g., Fast-Talk, Sex Appeal,
- Streetwise, Diplomacy, Savoir-Faire, Intimidation... (Note that players can't make influence rolls vs. other players: role-play it!)
- Reaction Modifier: Advantages (+) and disadvantages (-) give a bonus or penalty: Charisma, Appearance, Reputation...

(Only the GM sees reaction rolls, so watch out! A "friendly" positive reaction might also be a negative reaction so strong that they're lying.)

Fright Checks (Are We Scared?)

Terrifying events require a success roll against Will called a fright check. A roll of 14 or more always fails a fright check, no matter the modifiers used. (This is called the Rule of 14.) The GM looks up the consequences of a failed fright check.
